Family Birth Center Anesthesia Machine

Sutter Auburn Faith Hospital is in need of an upgraded anesthesia machine for our Family Birth Center. Our current anesthesia machines are no longer supported by the manufacturers, and therefore, parts are becoming increasingly difficult to procure if the machine breaks down. At this time there is not a new anesthesia machine that is dedicated to the unit and this is not part of our current capital campaign. The new anesthesia machines that are being procured as part of the Operating Room Remodel will be dedicated to the Operating Rooms/Surgery Department, leaving the Family Birth Center with the older model anesthesia machine. The new anesthesia machine we plan to purchase would be dedicated to the Family Birth Center so that they would have a state-of-the-art machine for mom's needing immediate c-sections due to the distress of the baby.

Because SAFH's current budget cannot provide for the acquisition of this level of medical technology, the Foundation proposed to conduct a matching fund campaign with Sutter Health. The matching grant was approved; therefore the Sutter Auburn Faith Hospital Foundation will only have to raise $30,000 from the community in order to purchase this state-of-the-art anesthesia machine whose cost is $60,000.
